AUDITORIUM

William Fox's $1,000,000 photo spectacle, A Daughter of the Gods now playing at the Auditorium theatre is playing at the Auditorium theatre is drawing large crowds twice a day. The swimming stunts of Annette Kellerman in this beautiful picture are stunning in their realism.

Especially interesting is the scene in the first part of the last act, where the perfectly moulded form of the fair Annette is seen suspended on a vine swing high in the air above a limmed applause and gasps of astonishment from the audience.

The picture is accompanied throughspecial music especially composed for A Daughter of the Gods and well played by the special orchestra engaged for the occasion.

The box office is open for the pur-chase of reserved seats from 9.00 s. m. to 9:00 p. m. The advance sale of seats is very large but some choice seats are yet to be had.

A PUBLIC BENEFACTOR.

New London Loses Wealthy and Active Promoter in Death of James D. Lynch, of New York.

James D. Lynch who was buried in New York Monday was a public ben-efactor to New London, inasmuch as through his constructive efforts he developed costly residential sites in the Pequot section on which stand palatial homes, the value of which have added greatly to the grand list -. He converted several acres of swamp land fronting Pequot avenue by drainage and at a cost of more than $16,000, making the tract as dry as an upland meadow and covering its surface with beautiful trees and sirubbery which he brought from Bliode Island and New Jersey. Most notable of the many sections that James D Lynch developed are: Park-way, which he opened, macadamized and presented to the city; the Jerome property, facing Montauk and Peoquot evenues, through which he opened For Cattle Or Sheep Hillside road and Jerome street paved with the costliest form of macadam, with water, sewer, gas and electric light in which condition he presented them to the city.

receives, through which he opened with the costliest form of macadam, with water, sewer, gas and electric light in which condition he presented them to the city.

The other sities that he sold are the Guthrie, Schall, Remsen, Butts, Moore, McKim, Sackett, Reyburn. Davison and Starr properties. He set out the maple trees in Glenwood avenue and preserved the grand old caks that flourish on the south side, the accomplished big things in his line in Newport and New York that were more remunerative to him that his investments in New London.

He had ideas of a public nature that did not meet with favor from the common council sometimes, but whatever he wanted done was sought for in an open way devoid of intrigue or secrecy. Though operating here in land ventures for more than 49 years, he never lived to realize any profit from monies expended. To develop residential sites was to him more of a hobby than a money segking object.

It was charitable in a quiet way transported the condition he presented brook-watered pasture for 300 sheep: wool is high, lambs worth $10 each; wool is high, lambs worth $10 fie woobject.

fle was obaritable in a quiet way and relieved distress whenever it came to his attention.

With his two unmarried sisters he occupied the simple but handsome resdence on the rocks, near the light rouse, during the summer season.

Bridgeport.—Mrs. Mitchell Neslaw died at the city clerk's office the other my to complain about what she asserted was an exorbitant series of in-creases of rent of the dwelling she oc-cupies at No. 104 Dayenport avenue in this city. In the last two years, she said, the price had gone from $14 to $17, then to $25, and today she ex-libited a notice that beginning June 1 hibited a notice that beginning June 1 the rental will be $35.

He has no plan to improve existent things.

He writes no able tifesis on "The People yersus Kings."

And "Capital versus Labor" never both ered bire a bit—
And "Graft," I'm really doubtful if he ever heard of it!

He gives no sharp opinions on 'The Corporations' Steath,'
He never advocated "The Community of Wealth;'
The "Social Propaganda" never came to him to vex
He's let the others sattle "Predeterminated Sex."

'Tis odd, but true he never lost a minute of content
On "Rural Colonising" or on "Social Settlement"
He never wrote for papers on "The Growing Crime of Pull."
And never harped or haggled on "The City Beautiful." He's just a common fellow whem it's very good to know.
He holds all things are perfect since the good Lord made them so:
And as I summarize bim it is growing in my mind
That he's a new reformer of a very welcome kind.
